

No, the FCC should not reclassify ILECs as non-dominant and not exempt them from provisions in the '96 Telecom Act. ILECs dominate the last mile because they own the infrastructure to citizens homes. A just solution would be to separate the infrastructure (wireline, cable, etc.) to determine its true cost and have the resulting company sell access to CLEC, ILEC, ISP, IXC.